MAN'S BEST FRIEND

Man's best friend won't just keep you company, he'll also improve your chances of finding a partner. Psychologists from Warwick University in the UK have discovered that a dog helps new friends break the ice. No matter what you look like, people are more likely to speak to you if you are with a canine friend, June McNicolas, one of the university team, took a dog with her for five days as she went around town and recorded the number of times she spoke to strangers – an amazing 156 times. About 60% of the meetings were with the opposite sex. But in another week when June walked around alone, she only spoke to new people 50 times. A male colleague then did the same experiment. However he was dressed, he met ten times the number of people he would normally meet if he didn't have a dog at his side. 'It shows that dogs are good ice-breakers,' June McNicolas says.
